

Gabby and the Lost Feather

One sunny morning, Gabby was walking through the park when she spotted a tiny white feather resting on the grass.

"I wonder who this belongs to," Gabby said with a smile.

She looked up into the trees and soon heard a little bluebird chirping.

"My feather blew away!" the bird sang.

Gabby carefully picked up the feather and reached as high as she could.

The little bird fluttered down and happily tucked the feather back into its wing.

"Thank you, Gabby!" chirped the bird.

Gabby smiled. "Helping a friend, no matter how small, makes every day a happy day."

As she walked home, the birds sang cheerful songs all around her, and Gabby's heart felt as light as a feather.

The End.
