

The Dinosaur Who Loved Flowers

Every dinosaur in the valley loved stomping through the mud—except one.

Dottie the little dinosaur loved flowers.

Each morning she carefully watered the colorful blossoms and watched butterflies dance from flower to flower.

One day, a tiny bird couldn't find a place to rest.

"Try my garden," Dottie said.

The bird chirped happily and landed on a bright yellow flower.

Soon bees buzzed, butterflies fluttered, and friendly animals came to visit every day.

Dottie smiled. Sometimes the kindest hearts make the most beautiful gardens.
